

2500 VOLUNTEER FIREMEN TAKE PART IN 36TH ANNUAL PARADE OF BUCKS COUNTY FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION ON SATURDAY AT SELL-PERK; $2375 IN PRIZES AWARDED

31 Musical Organizations Are in Line—In Many Instances Auxiliaries and Bands Carry Out Same Color Scheme As Firemen They Accompany — Modern and Ancient Apparatus in Line as Thousands Cheer — Sellersville and Perkasio Firemen Are Hosts at The Two-Day Event.

PERKASIE, June 13—Twenty-five hundred volunteer firemen paraded through the streets of this borough and those of Sellersville, Saturday, to the music furnished by 31 musical organizations. There were brass bands, drum and bugle corps, and string bands. There were red-shirted firemen, blue-shirted firemen, and firemen wearing shirts or jackets of other hues. In many instances the Ladies Auxiliaries and musical groups which accompanied them, carried out the color scheme of the firemen.

The parade was 2½ hours passing the reviewing stands, two of which were located in this borough, and one in Sellersville, where judges were stationed to select the various prize winners. The two towns—Sellersville and Perkasio—acted as joint hosts, and the streets were lined with several thousand spectators, and be-decked with flags and bunting, as were also some of the dwellings and business places.

The weather was very similar to that of last year, when the parade was held at Bristol. The day started off with light showers and cloudiness, then with the weather clearing at noon the humidity became more intense. There were a few cases of heat prostration on the part of those marching, but none of the cases were serious.

There was $2,375 in prize money distributed at this 36th annual parade.

The parade was of a two-day program, which started Friday evening with the annual meeting. Following the parade, a fireworks display was staged at the carnival grounds on Lake Lenape field, Sellersville.

Featured in the parade was Benjamin F. Stull, 89 years of age, who attended the preliminary meeting of Perkasio to plan the organization of the fire company, and who had his name enrolled in 1890. Rescue squads, with their ambulances, boats and diving units, held a prominent place in the parade.

There were six divisions, each division being led by aides in convertible automobiles, driven by attractive young women. Ted Wagner, Perkasio, was the chief marshal, and working with him were 18 assistants. Wagner was mounted upon a beautiful horse, and displayed riding prowess as he zig-zagged his mount over the route, ahead of the marching units. Officials of the Bucks County Firemen's Association, of the Ladies Auxiliary, burgesses of the two boroughs, police chiefs and fire chiefs of the two towns, had the place of honor at the head of the parade, following the color guard. In the vanguard was the Sell-Perk high school band in their blue, gray and gold uniforms.

The first division included five pieces of apparatus from Bristol fire companies, parading as a unit, led by the fire chief, Clifford Hagerman, also the chief of car. They were accompanied by the all-girl Jr. Cadet drum and bugle corps of Audubon, N. J., and also the emergency car of the Bristol Blood Donors. Next came: Feasterville Fire Co. apparatus; Perseverance

MIDGET RACING CAR DRIVER KILLED JUST BEFORE START OF 150-MILE GRIND ON SPEEDWAY

PENNDLE, June 13—The driver of a midget racing car was fatally injured on the Langhorne Speedway near here yesterday afternoon. The victim, Len Koenig, 36, Palmyra, N. J., was injured when his speeding midget car sideswiped another and turned over just before the start of the 150-mile grind for the national midget championship event.

The accident happened in a trial heat prior to the start of the race, which drew one of the largest crowds in history to the one-mile dirt oval.

Track officials said Koenig was "gunning" his car into the far turn when his front wheels brushed the rear of another midget car.

Koenig's auto tilted on its front end, hurling him through the air towards the outer rim of the track, then careened along the speedway. Koenig was lying near the outside edge of the racing strip when a track ambulance crew sped to his aid. When the accident happened track officials dashed into the racing strip and flagged down the cars speeding around the oval.

NUMEROUS SPEAKERS

Felicitations Extended By Representative Citizens Of The Community

The Bristol Jewish Center of Abavath Achim was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon in the presence of a distinguished gathering of visiting clergymen, members of the Bucks County Bar, State Senators, a former United States Senator, representatives of borough council, Bristol school board and numerous civic groups of the community. The ceremony was held in the synagogue and followed a religious ceremony, conducted by Rabbi Aaron Moskowitz.

Others to follow were Dr. J. Sobel, Marty Hopkins, B. Ballow, S. Soloway, Rabbi Moskowitz, Herman Silber, Dr. M. Seigel, Louis Dries, Joseph B. Singer, Samuel Freedman, Harry Dries, Nathan Grosky, Charles Richman, Leon Plavin and Dr. S. Katz.

The perpetual light was lighted by Nathan Grosky. Rabbi J. Furst, of Burlington, N. J., gave an interesting discourse in which he stressed the duty of Jews to keep alive the Hebrew school and its teachings and to "not make the new center a monument but to make it a synagogue and a place of worship."

Rabbi Moskowitz said "we are told that sometimes a whole life time can be crowded into an hour. Such is the occasion of this day for Jewry in Bristol." He told the assembled group that the edifice had been built out of the material things of life but that it would only serve its purpose if it reflected the things

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

(Distributed by International News Service)

The Republican educator who was listed as a Communist has cause to be indignant. . . it's had enough to be a Republican these days.

In fact if you ask a fellow if he is a Republican he says "I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate and degrade me."

You can't even get Dewey to admit that he voted for Dewey.

But to get back to Pinkos. . . it's hard to figure whether some of them are more disturbed by their publicity or their stupidity.

A number who have fed on left-wing applause are so anxious to get right, they are straining their backs and our credulity.

All I know is when you see a fellow learning the words of the Internationale he is not practicing for an Elks picnic.

"MIXED UP" IS RIGHT

The case of Dan McCarthy, 22, a Brooklyn-born former GI who wants to become a German citizen is puzzling. There are less drastic ways of escaping from Brooklyn.

He's not in love with a fraulein, and he has nothing against the United States. But he has appeared before the American consul in Frankfurt, asking if he could give up his American citizenship and become a German.

He is proud to have been a U. S. citizen, he says. He just likes the German way of life better. He has found people in Germany diligent, hard-working, hospitable and generous, lovers of music and the simple things of life, with fine family feelings. He has found these qualities in America, too, but "in smaller degree."

His mother says he has been "mixed up" for the last three years, and this seems obvious. But many anti-Nazi Americans have had something of the same feeling toward Germans.

More than most people, Germans have two faces. One face is kindly, sentimental and law-abiding. The other is militaristic and cruel. Dan McCarthy has been seeing only one face.

Men who failed to adjust to military service have reacted in strange ways, which sometimes aren't their fault. But asking what is wrong with him may be less profitable than asking: Where did his fellow-countrymen fail him?

Germany is a land of poverty and rubble. What other values, which McCarthy failed to find in his own country, does it offer to offset its lack of comforts?

The values he felt more strongly there are human values—association in friendship, common effort, mutual respect; singing and arguing and playing together. They are important qualities. Is present-day American society providing them in satisfying measure?

HOPPERS ARE COMING

The West reacts only slightly now to the grasshopper alarm, although the voracious insects were wont to eat everything in sight, including pitchfork handles, in an earlier day. So the word out of Washington that the grasshoppers are coming, although not pleasant news, is not viewed on the plains as an inescapable catastrophe. There will be many weapons within easy reach when the hopper starts invading the corn.

The farmer only wishes he could stop a hot wind in August as effectively as he can the locusts. This hopper invasion, according to Washington experts, will be heaviest in eastern Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and in western Kansas, Nebraska and the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, with the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois getting their share.

If members of Congress are having trouble finding the missing word "economy" it appears in the dictionary right after the word "economizer," and either will do.

The Credit Bubble

Aside from a government's "good intentions" the actual asset back of its currency is the amount of gold held by the government. In 1932 the government owned $4 billion dollars worth of gold, as valued at the official price of $20.16 an ounce, which had been based on a full century's experience with gold values.

That gold was freely available, in the ratio of about 70 per cent, to "back up" the currency—that is, any one with a dollar bill could easily swap it for a dollar of gold, and at a price for the gold which had been proven by a hundred years experience.

The ratio of debt-plus-currency to gold on hand was 25 to 4, or 16 per cent.

These figures have changed as follows: national debt $252 billions; currency in circulation, $32 billions; gold stocks on hand, valued by government at $24 billions. However the government valuation on its gold is a wholly fictitious price, representing an arbitrary markup from $20.16 an ounce, the century-old price, to the 35 an ounce level set by Messrs. Roosevelt, Morgenthau, et al, on January 31, 1934 (the "59-cent dollar" transaction).

Correcting the value of gold to its price as set in a hundred years experience with gold as a free commodity, the actual value of the gold (i. e., what it would bring on an open market) is approximately $14 billions.

These figures add up to a ratio of direct obligations, or debt-plus-currency, of $284 billions in debt matched by $14 billions in assets—a ratio of a little less than 5 per cent.

These figures show that Uncle Sam, in seventeen years, has expanded public credit in this one field alone so that assets have fallen in ratio debts from 16 per cent to 5 per cent.

THEY SHOW GOVERNMENT CREDIT INFLATION OF MORE THAN 300 PER CENT!

This figure of 300 per cent public credit inflation may or may not be precisely accurate, but any error in it is in the nature of being too low rather than too high. In innumerable other fields, the Federal government has expanded its credit in manners where it has NO TANGIBLE ASSETS WHATSOEVER to meet its obligations.

There is a rule-of-thumb calculation which strongly supports the 300 per cent figure as showing the extent of public credit inflation. This is the ratio between government controlled interest rates and those which are "natural"—determined by the laws of supply and demand.

The general rate of interest, in all fields which the government dominates the situation, is, as everyone knows, approximately 2 per cent.

Where can we find the "natural" interest rate which would be current if all government controls and pressures were removed? We cannot do it in bond market figures, for in that field government "pegging" of its own bond prices creates an artificial situation. The place to look is in the field of reasonably sound income-bearing stocks, where the free price in the exchanges is the factor which establishes the ratio between capital value and return.

This is easy to ascertain. In a list of "gilt-edged" stocks, their current prices call for an annual return on investment of 6 per cent or a little better.

This 6 per cent, freely determined by buyers and sellers, is obviously the "natural" interest rate of the times. The 2 per cent represents what has happened to the natural rate as a result of the government so greatly expanding its own credit.

NOTE THAT THE "NATURAL" INTEREST RATE IS 300 PER CENT HIGHER THAN THE RATE WHERE GOVERNMENT INFLATION HAS BEEN THE CONTROLLING FACTOR.

Trying to "pump-prime" industry and commerce so as to support the immense spending of the present National Administration, Uncle Sam has been quietly encouraging the expansion or inflation of private credit.

This is much harder to measure, in any over-all sense, than is the public credit, since the asset figures are almost impossible to analyze, but many sample statistics show the inflation which has been going on—and show also how vulnerable the credit bubble has become.

Recent figures on automobile purchasing show that credit use has risen to (in very rough figures) $2½ billion dollars, or a billion dollars more than in 1939, the last proper "free market" for cars.

Now, think of these figures a moment. There are now being sold just about the same number of automobiles as in 1939. In actual value they are worth the same, possibly a little less—measured in terms of man-hours and materials involved. Being turned out more by machinery now than in 1939; having more efficient practices available, and using in most cases less materials and less valuable materials—these are factors which justify the statement that the true value of 1949 cars is less than the true value of 1939's cars.

YET A BILLION DOLLARS MORE CREDIT IS BEING DRAWN UPON TO FINANCE AUTO BUYING. A BILLION DOLLARS MORE OF SOMEBODY'S CREDIT HAS BEEN PUT UP FOR THIS PURPOSE, AND THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY HAS A BILLION DOLLARS MORE IN PAPER ON THE SAME NUMBER OF CARS.

IF YOU THINK THIS ISN'T "INFLATION," JUST STOP TO THINK WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THE BUBBLE WERE HIT FROM EITHER SIDE. SUPPOSE, ON THE ONE HAND, THAT THERE WERE TO BE A SUDDEN SHARP TIGHTENING OF CREDIT—WHERE WOULD THE AUTO INDUSTRY COME OUT? OR WHERE WOULD IT COME OUT IF SOMEONE SOMEWHERE SUDDENLY FOUND A WAY TO PRODUCE CARS FOR SALE AT THEIR TRUE VALUE, INSTEAD OF AN INFLATED PRICE. HOW LONG WOULD IT TAKE FOR A POPULAR $500 CAR TO BRING THIS WHOLE INFLATED CREDIT STRUCTURE DOWN ON EVERYBODY'S EARS?

Here is another sample of how far private credit has been expanded. The television is a lusty new industry. The demand thus far has much exceeded the supply.

Yet some months back, when a financial survey of the industry was made, it was revealed that approximately 67 per cent of television set buying was on credit—and that substantially half of this credit was being drawn upon by borderline-income families who will be the first to go into a hole if a serious recession hits us.

Or, take another field where the facts are better known to the average citizen—that of housing. As everyone knows, thousands of homes have been built at prices at least double what always was considered normal before—and probably twice what they will bring in the future if normalcy returns.

In innumerable cases, with government support, the mortgage has been generous even for the inflated price. In the case of war veterans, in some instances the mortgages have been substantially a hundred per cent.

This means several things. In many cases, the war veterans already have found that the "bargain" the government offered them wasn't as good as it seemed at the time.

For one thing, it means that the war veteran and his family are tied up in a mortgage requiring them to pay about twice as much for their home as it will probably be worth when they finish paying for it.

For another, it already has meant that the veteran's "equity" in his property, which is the amount by which the value of the house exceeds the mortgage on it, disappeared months ago and may never reappear until he has retired half or more of the mortgage.

For still another, it means that a great deal of public and private credit has become tied up where it may never successfully get out—normally no more than $500.

That's a process which will bankrupt anyone in the long run. Whether it is done by individuals or by a government, or both, where it eventually comes out is all too obvious: to the poorhouse—and nowhere else.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Jan. 18, 1900. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger

At a meeting of the Germantown Convocation of the Protestant Episcopal Church, held on Tuesday at St. Luke's parish house, the members of St. Paul's Mission, of Bristol, petitioned to be constituted a church. Rev. W. Bryce Morrow, rector of the St. James Church, Bristol, declared that the mission was schismatic and had been denied similar appeals by two bishops. The convocation, however, stamped the petition with approval by carrying a motion to refer the matter to Bishop Whitaker with a favorable recommendation.

The petition was signed by 112 ardent members of the mission, among whom were 35 communicants, and 45 asking for confirmation, and in addition there are 21 adults and infants wanting baptism. . . .

Mrs. Sarah Ann LaDue died at her residence, 803 Radcliffe street, last Thursday, at the age of 78 years. Mrs. LaDue's death followed within 24 hours that of her sister, Miss Mary White, who died on Wednesday, the 16th instant. The aged sisters resided together.

Colonel Edward Morrell shipped a dozen hounds this week to a hunting club near Paris, France. The dogs were the pick of the Rose Tree Kennels, and went in the company of Daniel Rice, of Media. Colonel Morrell expects to ride with the French huntsmen the coming season, and wants to show what the American bred hound can do on the trail.

The Otter street horse car service has been discontinued and a large stage is now used to carry passengers from Clouson's corner to the trolley terminus at Croydon.

The ferryboat resumed its trips on Monday, but has since ceased operations on account of the floating ice in the river. Joel Sooy has been reinstated as pilot, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Enos Cain, who was recently killed at the railroad depot.

The earliest important event recalled by Charles Fenimore, of Stacy street, says the Burlington Gazette, is being to Bristol to see Lafayette pass through there enroute to Philadelphia in September, 1824.

On last Monday evening the following officers were installed in Bristol Castle, No. 103, Knights of Mystic Chain, by Deputy Select Commander George J. Sheppard, assisted by Deputy Select Marshal Harvey S. Rue and Deputy Select Chaplain John Hunter: S.K.P.C., John Barton; S.K.C., Monroe Barton; S.K.V.C., Joseph McDonald; S.K.M., William Jackson; S.K.R.S., John C. Adams; S.K. treas., Harvey S. Rue; chaplain, Alpheus Peterson; inside guard, Hugh Mackie; outside guard, John Booz, Jr.

(Following items from Gazette of January 25, 1900).

Edgar Smith, who for several years has been in the employ of Wm. H. Grundy & Co., sailed yesterday on the steamship "Advance" for Aspinwall, Isthmus of Panama, where he has accepted a position as stenographer with the Panama Steamship and Railroad Company.

In the early part of the week it took the coach a longer time than usual to make the trips from Croydon to Bristol on account of the rough roads.

The Republican electors of Bristol township met at Emile on last Saturday. Notwithstanding the fact that the date of the meeting had to be changed and only about 48 hours notice was given, there was an unusually large turn-out of Republicans.

William C. Mayne was elected president; and William Leigh, east district, and Austin S. Vandegrift, west district, secretaries.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bristol Free Library was held in the library room on last Thursday evening.

John K. Wildman was called to the chair and Jesse O. Thomas was made secretary.

The report of the treasurer, Miss M. A. Gilkeson, showed a balance on hand of $11.35.

After the adjournment of the shareholders' meeting the board of managers was re-organized. John K. Wildman was elected president; Jesse O. Thomas, secretary; and Miss M. A. Gilkeson, treasurer. Miss Esther Lawrence was re-elected librarian by the board.

press conference that most of his proposals would be enacted before adjournment. Paying slight attention to this, Administration leaders declared that only the North Atlantic pact, the reciprocal trade agreements and the Taft-Hartley repeal could be acted upon at this session. Everything else would have to go over until next fall. Adjournment would be not later than July 31. That was the way things stood up to May 31. On that day, speaking as one with authority, Mr. Murray sternly rebuked the Democratic leadership. He abruptly ordered it to halt its "drift toward congressional inaction." He called upon it for a "forthright statement" of its purpose to stay in session "until substantial sections" of the "Fair Deal" program are enacted. He sneered at the "reputation" of the Eighty-first Congress and sharply criticized its leaders.

THE immediate result was a stampede to reverse themselves. Mr. Murray's May 31 statement was in letters to Senate Leader Scott Lucas and House Leader John McCormack. On June 1, Mr. McCormack replied to Mr. Murray substantially as follows: "I am in receipt of your letter and there is nothing in it with which I am not in full agreement." With equal speed, Senator Lucas replied that much of what Mr. Murray demanded had already passed the Senate (which is not at all accurate) and that it was the House that lagged. "If, however," he said, "it is impossible to pass the major measures demanded by July 31, we will extend the time for adjournment."

OTHER leaders followed with similar stultifying declarations. Literally, over night their attitude changed. But the realities of course have not changed. It is just as true as before that the bulk of Mr. Truman's domestic program will not go through at this session—first, because sentiment in the country does not favor it; second, because a majority of Congress is opposed. Mr. Murray, with his solemn mandate, has not changed a single vote in Congress but he has accomplished two things. For one, he compelled the Democratic leadership publicly to put on a show of shameful subservience such as has not been seen in our politics before. Of course, since 1936 the Democrats, nationally, have been allied with the CIO and acquiesced in its claim of being indispensable to Democratic success. But, previously, there had been no unaccompanied admission that they took orders from it.

THAT is exactly what the party leaders have done this time. A considerable number of their followers are humiliated. It is one thing, they say, to play politics with the CIO. It is quite another to submit openly to CIO dictation. The second thing Mr. Murray has accomplished is to postpone Senate action on the terribly important North Atlantic pact, for which Secretary of State Acheson and General Marshall have earnestly appealed. Until he cracked the whip and the leaders jumped through his hoop, the pact had the right of way in the Senate. Due to the unselfish patriotism of Mr. Murray and the noble nature of the Democratic leaders it has now lost priority and the Taft-Hartley repeal proposal has taken its place. This may mean weeks of labor-bill debate before the pact can be taken up at all. At a very critical moment this has weakened our hand at the Paris conference. In his statement Mr. Murray mentioned practically everything else but significantly said no word for the pact, perhaps the most vital of all Administration measures.

THE pathetic feature of this mortifying Democratic performance is that it is so completely unnecessary. Fear of Mr. Murray is so completely unfounded. Politically, he is a bluff, a bully and a fraud. As proven in the last campaign (in which the CIO pledged itself to drive out of public life every candidate for Congress who had supported the Taft-Hartley bill), he is totally unable to deliver his own votes. The claims of his organization are demonstrably absurd. As shown by the 1948 Dunn surveys in some states and many districts, CIO support is more a liability than an asset. It all adds up to make Democratic leaders in Congress seem a particularly pusillanimous lot of rabbits.

Couple Wed On Sunday Are En Route To Florida

A couple united in marriage in St. Ann's R. C. Church yesterday at 11 o'clock mass is enroute to Florida, the motor trip being of two weeks duration. The bride is the former Miss Leonora Favaro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Favaro, 1045 Pond street, and the bridegroom, Mr. Joseph Martin, son of Mrs. Julia Martin, Philadelphia.

The priest who conducted the mass is the Rev. Peter Pinci, vocal selections by Mrs. Helen Wells, Phila., being "Ave Maria" and "The Rosary." Mr. Favaro gave his daughter in marriage.

For her wedding day the young woman had selected a lace-trimmed white satin gown with long train, her six-yard veil of net, edged in lace, being attached to a rhinestone tiara. The white prayer book, topped by a lavender orchid, with shower of valley lilies, carried to the altar was exchanged for a bouquet of Easter lilies, with a lavender orchid at the center when the recessional began. This, too, was with shower effect.

Aqua marisette gowns of the three bridesmaids, were floor length, featuring peplums. Their matching hats had trim of white wild roses; slippers were gold tone; and colonial bouquets of white roses were carried. The attendants were: Miss Florence Carleo, 611 Cedar street; Mrs. Josephine Stevenson, and Miss Eva Tranotti, Dorrance street.

Best man for Mr. Martin was Mr. Flore Favaro, brother of the bride; and ushers Messrs. Jack Tranotti, Dorrance street, and Rudolph Favaro, New York, N. Y., her six-yard veil of net, edged in lace, being attached to a rhinestone tiara. The white prayer

Two hundred guests gathered in Roman hall, Trenton, N. J., for the reception and dinner.

Leaving for the south, Mrs. Martin was attired in plum organdy with white trim, wore white accessories, and a lavender orchid. The couple will make their home at 1045 Pond street.

Gifts of Mrs. Martin to her attendants were rhinestone necklace and earring sets; while Mr. Martin gave the best man and ushers mar-cassite tie pins, initialed. Mr. Martin served in the Merchant Marine during World War II. Mrs. Martin graduated from Marinello School of Beauty Culture, Philadelphia.

The mother of the bride wore for the wedding an aqua crepe dress, silver sequin trimmed, black hat and gold accessories. Mrs. Martin the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a black and blue print dress and black accessories. Both had corsages of red roses.

Young Man Drowns In King Farms Lake

Johnson became panic stricken and ran to the store instead of to the camp, which is nearer, to summon help. In the meantime David Morrell came along and pulling off his clothes jumped into the water in an endeavor to rescue Scott. Morrell said that he managed to reach the bottom of the lake but could not locate Scott.

Victor Janette, Doylestown, who has a camp some distance from the scene, heard the cries for help and ran to the scene. Jose Reyes, an instructor at the King Farms, was also nearby and tried to get to the assistance of Scott without success. Reyes says that he went into the water several times trying to get Scott.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad worked strenuously over Scott for over two hours trying to revive him but without success. Scott was pronounced dead by Bucks County Coroner, J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwall Heights, and the body was removed to the funeral home of John C. Black, Bristol.

There are many in this gathering who have passed the greater portion of their years as members of this community. Others are of a more recent day. Many can remember our early trials and the serious problems which confronted us as we struggled to become a valued part of this community. We were helped by many along the way. We, in turn, our visitors—our co-workers and our colleagues. We greet the whole community and ask in the name of God, let us all partake with us in our joyful, yet solemn, celebration. Let us begin with prayers of gratitude, in the ancient Jewish manner, that He has preserved us and enabled us to witness this great day in which our Temple of humanity begins to serve His holy cause.

Let us begin with prayers of gratitude, in the ancient Jewish manner, that He has preserved us and enabled us to witness this great day in which our Temple of humanity begins to serve His holy cause.

have made our individual contributions toward improving Bristol as a place to live in, to work in, a place of peace, of plenty and of decency."

Arthur Bloom, of the contracting firm of Bloom and Lambert, presented the key of the structure to Herman Silber who accepted it "with pride and humility." Mr. Silber said "after 15 years our dreams have come true, after much talk and effort." He told of the excellent cooperation the congregation had received from those of the community and enumerated the diversified groups which had assisted.

Edward B. Watson, state senator, former United States Senator, Joseph R. Grundy, Borough Attorney, John L. Kilevne, Esq.; Paul J. Barrett, Esq., responded briefly. Mr. Kilevne said that he brought the congratulations of the municipal authorities.

Leon Flavin then called upon Mr. Silber and said that Mr. Silber had been president of the congregation since 1946, had been leader, given guidance, and had spent many hours each day in seeing that the work of building the center was completed. "He not only gave his heart but a thousand hearts," said Mr. Flavin, "and we wish to honor him in bronze." He then presented a handsome bronze tablet which will be placed in the building in recognition of the untiring efforts and devotion of Mr. Silber in furthering the work of construction of the center. Mr. Silber responded briefly.

Rabbi Moskovits closed the service with prayer, and the congregation sang the national anthem. All then adjourned to the social hall in the basement where a buffet lunch was served.

The last of the dinner meetings, year 1948-49, given by the Methodist Young Adults of lower Bucks county area, Philadelphia Conference, was held on Saturday evening in Bristol Methodist Church. Today's Quiet Moment

There has been a steady trend towards the secularizing of the functions of the church during recent years. Without becoming controversial over the relative merits of psychology and sociology as compared with religion, we might look at some of the implications of this trend for us. First of all, when people need the help of the psychiatrist or social worker, it is because they have problems. . . problems which often belong in the province of the professional religionist, namely, the priest, the rabbi, the minister. But people do not want to turn to religion, in spite of the fact that today's clergy are often trained in psychology and social work, because they often enjoy being in difficulty. In the old days, lots of these "problems" would come under the heading of sin. . . sin is enjoyable. . . so people go to secular agencies which call sin by less painful words like maladjustment, drives, libido, and other linguistic gooblegook which make the patient feel that he really isn't so bad off after all.

NEWPORTVILLE, THIRD WARD AND TERRACE NINES WIN

The Bristol Youth League opened its ninth season yesterday afternoon with victories going to Newportville, Third Ward Eagles, and Terrace.

The surprise of the afternoon was on Memorial Park field where the Terrace boys nosed out Crocydon, defending champion, by a score of 6-5.

Marty Braam's boys had the lead from the start but Dave Muth almost "blew" the game in the fifth when three hits and a walk gave Crocydon three runs.

In the fourth inning, Hoigate smashed out a home run for the losing team.

Graceton White led Terrace with the stick with a triple and double while Frank Rich had a double and single.

"Frankie" Barbetta handled himself nice behind the plate for the winners, killing two runners at the plate. During batting practice, Barbetta was struck in the eye with a batted ball but insisted on catching the game.

Paul Schmitt held Bristol Township to three hits as he hurled the Newportville Redskins to an easy 11-2 victory on Township's field. The winners had nine blows off Bob Rigby and James.

The Third Ward Eagles, under the management of Harold Loud, played its first game in the circuit, having recently entered and lost out a 11-8 win over Fourth Ward A. C.

Two of the hits mixed with six walks gave "Vince" Paragalli's lads six runs in the fifth inning.

Ralston Stevens hits a homer with one on in the sixth inning to clinch the tilt for the Eagles.

"Buddy" Loud has four out of five to lead the batters of the game.

ST. ANN'S SOFTBALL TEAM AGAIN WINS

St. Ann's A. A. won its second game of the Bristol Suburban Softball League yesterday afternoon as it downed the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 7-6, on Memorial Park field.

Wildness on the part of Nick Lomma and errors gave the St. Ann's team the victory as Fifth Ward out-hit the winners, 11-7. The losers had five errors, two on Lomma while he was playing the outfield and another while he was pitching.

St. Ann's scored four times in the second without a base hit. The runs were scored on three walks, a hit batsman, a wild pitch, and two errors.

"Jim" Brescia was the winning pitcher with Lomma being the loser. "Lon" Galzerano relieved Lomma in the second.

After graduation comes opportunity!

The approach of Commencement Day 1949 brings many high school seniors face to face with a big question — what next? There's one big opportunity to which every high school graduate should give serious consideration. This is the career offered you in today's Regular Army.

Few openings in private enterprise offer you the leadership training, the educational advantages, the exciting travel and adventure, the supervised sports and recreation programs and the clean, wholesome, active life that can be yours with an Army enlistment.

Few openings offer you such comradeship with America's finest young men — for today — only the best are acceptable for service in the United States Army.

To win a place in today's Regular Army you must pass physical examinations that are tougher — mental examinations more difficult — than ever before. And with these more rigid requirements you will face keener all-round competition for assignment to the more than 200 courses offered at Army technical and specialty schools.

The rewards are also greater — opportunity for advancement is limited only by your ability and initiative. Many of today's general officers began their careers as Privates. Some of today's Privates may be our future Generals!

Appointments to Officer's Candidate Schools and to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point are available to those who can make the grade. In what other field can you aspire so high?

You owe it to yourself to get all the facts. See the friendly recruiting officer at your local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station today. He will be happy to give you full details without any obligation to you.

Lucky Strike Schedules Nearly 1600 Daily Papers

Scheduling nearly 1600 daily newspapers in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii for twice-a-week insertions ranging from 1440 to 660 lines, Lucky Strike has embarked on one of the greatest Summer advertising campaigns in history. The ads, which began appearing June 7, will run on Tuesday and Thursdays.

Theme of the campaign is that at auctions Luckies pay millions of dollars more than official parity prices for fine tobacco to provide finer cigarettes.

All the ads feature testimonials of independent tobacco experts — warehousemen, auctioneers and buyers — with pictures of the men quoted.

The same theme will prevail in magazine advertising, with Lucky Strike using the publications on its schedule, and will be coordinated in radio commercials. "Your Hit Parade" will continue on Saturday nights over NBC while "Your Hit Parade on Parade" will be heard on Sunday nights over CBS until Jack Benny's return to the air in the Fall.

A stepped-up merchandising program accompanies the huge advertising campaign.

New 'Phone Directories To Be Distributed Soon
Distribution of new telephone directories will start here Wednesday, June 22nd, and is expected to be completed by the end of the month. It was announced today by W. B. Taylor, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Approximately 12,000 copies of the Suburban directories will be delivered in this territory. Mr. Taylor said. This is an increase of more than 1200 over last year's distribution. Local subscribers will also receive Philadelphia directories at the same time.

The new grey-covered books contain approximately 223,200 alphabetical listings, an increase of 19300. Three new central office names made their first appearance in the new directories. 2500 VOLUNTEER FIREMEN TAKE PART IN 36TH ANNUAL PARADE OF BUCKS COUNTY FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION ON SATURDAY AT SELL-PERK; $2375 IN PRIZES AWARDED

31 Musical Organizations Are in Line—In Many Instances Auxiliaries and Bands Carry Out Same Color Scheme As Firemen They Accompany—Modern and Ancient Apparatus in Line as Thousands Cheer—Sellersville and Perkasee Firemen Are Hosts at the Two-Day Event.

PERKASIE, June 13—Twenty-five hundred volunteer firemen paraded through the streets of this borough and those of Sellersville, Saturday, to the music furnished by 31 musical organizations. There were brass bands, drum and bugle corps, and string bands. There were red-shirted firemen, blue-shirted firemen, and firemen wearing shirts or jackets of other hues. In many instances the Ladies Auxiliaries and musical groups which accompanied them, carried out the color scheme of the firemen.

The parade was 2½ hours passing the reviewing stands, two of which were located in this borough, and one in Sellersville, where judges were stationed to select the various prize winners. The two towns—Sellersville and Perkasee—acted as joint hosts, and the streets were lined with several thousand spectators, and be-decked with flags and bunting, as were also some of the dwellings and business places.

The weather was very similar to that of last year, when the parade was held at Bristol. The day started off with light showers and cloudiness, then with the weather clearing at noon the humidity became more intense. There were a few cases of heat prostration on the part of those marching, but none of the cases were serious.

There was $2,375 in prize money distributed at this 36th annual parade.

The parade was of a two-day program, which started Friday evening with the annual meeting. Following the parade, a fireworks display was staged at the carnival grounds on Lake Lenape field, Sellersville.

Featured in the parade was Benjamin F. Stull, 89 years of age, who attended the preliminary meeting of Perkasee to plan the organization of the fire company, and who had his name enrolled in 1890. Rescue squads, with their ambulances, boats and diving units, held a prominent place in the parade.

There were six divisions, each division being led by aides in convertible automobiles, driven by attractive young women. Ted Wagner, Perkasee, was the chief marshal, and working with him were 13 assistants. Wagner was mounted upon a beautiful horse, and displayed riding prowess as he zig-zagged his mount over the route, ahead of the marching units. Officials of the Bucks County Firemen's Association, of the Ladies Auxiliary, burgesses of the two boroughs, police chiefs and fire chiefs of the two towns, had the place of honor at the head of the parade, following the color guard. In the vanguard was the Sell-Perk high school band in their blue, gray and gold uniforms.

The first division included five pieces of apparatus from Bristol fire companies, parading as a unit, led by the fire chief, Clifford Hagerman, also the chief of the fire. They were accompanied by the all-girl Jr. Cadet drum and bugle corps of Audubon, N. J., and also the emergency car of the Bristol Blood Donors. Next came: Feasterville Fire Co. apparatus; Perseverance

PENNDLE, June 13—The driver of a midget racing car was fatally injured on the Langhorne Speedway near here yesterday afternoon. The victim, Len Koenig, 36, Palmyra, N. J., was injured when his speeding midget car sideswiped another and turned over just before the start of the 150-mile grind for the national midget championship event.

The accident happened in a trial heat prior to the start of the race, which drew one of the largest crowds in history to the one-mile dirt oval.

Track officials said Koenig was "gunning" his car into the far turn when his front wheels brushed the rear of another midget car.

Koenig's auto tilted on its front end, hurling him through the air towards the outer rim of the track, then careened along the speedway.

Koenig was lying near the outside edge of the racing strip when a track ambulance crew sped to his aid. When the accident happened track officials dashed into the racing strip and flagged down the cars speeding around the oval.

THE CREDIT BUBBLE

Only a handful of Americans are thinking seriously about the weakness of national finances.

The fact that a good many millions are openly uneasy about what the future holds, and are frankly worried for fear we are sliding deep into a renewed Depression, doesn't mean that they have analyzed the situation and know just what things are wrong.

You can be afraid of something without knowing what it is, and can sense danger without understanding it.

For those who do examine the national situation, there are factors in it which justify all the present uneasiness.

Part of our present crisis comes from the existence of a vastly over-expanded credit structure—a bubble of inflated public and private credit which, like a bubble, is held together by the thinnest imaginable sort of a skin, and which, again like a bubble, trembles and shivers at the slightest breath of air.

If the bubbles burst, no one can possibly figure what will happen next.

There is great likelihood that not merely the national government, but all the American people, would be bankrupted overnight. We could be thrown at once into mass destitution such as, for example, the Chinese and other races have experienced in the past.

One thing is certain, or almost so—if the bubble breaks, free government as outlined by the American Constitution will cease to exist. We will slide into dictatorship, just as Germany and Italy did after World War I. Unlike their situation, however, there would then be no remaining rich and prosperous areas remaining in the world where we could try, as they did, to seize other people's wealth when our own disappeared.

The most conspicuous side of America's credit bubble is that which involves the national or public credit.

Part of this can be measured with some exactness. The two direct obligations of a government are its currency and its bonded debt. What has happened to these in the course of seventeen New Deal years? Here is the picture in rounded off figures:

In 1932, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was running for President the first time, the U. S. Government had a debt of roughly $20 billions and currency in circulation of about $5 billions—a total of these direct obligations amounting to $25 billions.

JEWISH CENTER DEDICATED WITH RELIGIOUS SERVICE

Distinguished Group Attends Ceremony Held Here Yesterday

NUMEROUS SPEAKERS

The Bristol Jewish Center of Abavath Achim was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon in the presence of a distinguished gathering of visiting clergymen, members of the Bucks County Bar, State Senate, a former United States Senator, representatives of borough council, Bristol school board and numerous civic groups of the community. The ceremony was held in the synagogue and followed a religious ceremony, conducted by Rabbi Aaron Moskowitz.

Samuel Gratz was in charge of the program and announced first F. Hopkins and W. Cohen, two of the oldest members who proceeded to seats reserved for them at the front of the edifice. Others to follow were Dr. J. Sobel, Marty Hopkins, B. Hallow, S. Soloway, Rabbi Moskowitz, Herman Silber, Dr. M. Seigel, Louis Dries, Joseph B. Singer, Samuel Freedman, Harry Dries, Nathan Grosky, Charles Richman, Leon Plavin and Dr. S. Katz.

The perpetual light was lighted by Nathan Grosky. Rabbi J. Furst, of Burlington, N. J., gave an interesting discourse in which he stressed the duty of Jews to keep alive the Hebrew school and its teachings and to "not make the new center a monument but to make it a synagogue and a place of worship."

Rabbi Moskowitz said "we are told that sometimes a whole lifetime can be crowded into an hour. Such is the occasion of this day for Jewry in Bristol." He told the assembled group that the edifice had been built out of the material things of life but that it would only serve its purpose if it reflected the things

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

The Republican educator who was listed as a Communist has cause to be indignant. It's bad enough to be a Republican these days.

In fact if you ask a fellow if he is a Republican he says "I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate and degrade me."

You can't even get Dewey to admit that he voted for Dewey.

But to get back to Pinkos . . . it's hard to figure whether some of them are more disturbed by their publicity or their stupidity.

A number who have fed on left-wing applause are so anxious to get right, they are straining their backs and our credulity.

All I know is when you see a fellow learning the words of the Internationale he is not practicing for an Elks picnic.

"MIXED UP" IS RIGHT

The case of Dan McCarthy, 22, a Brooklyn-born former GI who wants to become a German citizen is puzzling. There are less drastic ways of escaping from Brooklyn.

He's not in love with a fraulein, and he has nothing against the United States. But he has appeared before the American consul in Frankfurt, asking if he could give up his American citizenship and become a German.

He is proud to have been a U. S. citizen, he says. He just likes the German way of life better. He has found people in Germany diligent, hard-working, hospitable and generous, lovers of music and the simple things of life, with fine family feelings. He has found these qualities in America, too, but "in smaller degree."

His mother says he has been "mixed up" for the last three years, and this seems obvious. But many anti-Nazi Americans have had something of the same feeling toward Germans.

More than most people, Germans have two faces. One face is kindly, sentimental and law-abiding. The other is militaristic and cruel. Dan McCarthy has been seeing only one face.

Men who failed to adjust to military service have reacted in strange ways, which sometimes aren't their fault. But asking what is wrong with him may be less profitable than asking: Where did his fellow-countrymen fail him?

Germany is a land of poverty and rubble. What other values, which McCarthy failed to find in his own country, does it offer to offset its lack of comforts?

The values he felt more strongly there are human values—association in friendship, common effort, mutual respect; singing and arguing and playing together. They are important qualities. Is present-day American society providing them in satisfying measure?

HOPPERS ARE COMING

The West reacts only slightly now to the grasshopper alarm, although the voracious insects were wont to eat everything in sight, including pitchfork handles, in an earlier day. So the word out of Washington that the grasshoppers are coming, although not pleasant news, is not viewed on the plains as an inescapable catastrophe. There will be many weapons within easy reach when the hopper starts invading the corn.

The farmer only wishes he could stop a hot wind in August as effectively as he can the locusts. This hopper invasion, according to Washington experts, will be heaviest in eastern Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and in west ern Kansas, Nebraska and the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, with the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois getting their share.

If members of Congress are having trouble finding the missing word "economy" it appears in the dictionary right after the word "economizer," and either will do.

Aside from a government's "good intentions" the actual asset back of its currency is the amount of gold held by the government. In 1932 the government owned $4 billion dollars worth of gold, as valued at the official price of $20.16 an ounce, which had been based on a full century's experience with gold values.

That gold was freely available, in the ratio of about 70 per cent, to "back up" the currency—that is, any one with a dollar bill could easily swap it for a dollar of gold, and at a price for the gold which had been proven by a hundred years experience.

The ratio of debt-plus-currency to gold on hand was 25 to 4, or 16 per cent. These figures have changed as follows: national debt $252 billions; currency in circulation, $32 billions; gold stocks on hand, valued by government at $24 billions. However the government valuation on its gold is a wholly fictitious price, representing an arbitrary markup from $20.16 an ounce, the century old price, to the $35 an ounce level set by Messrs. Roosevelt, Morgenthau, et al. on January 31, 1934 (the "59-cent dollar" transaction).

Correcting the value of gold to its price as set in a hundred years experience with gold as a free commodity, the actual value of the gold (i.e., what it would bring on an open market) is approximately $14 billions.

These figures add up to a ratio of direct obligations, or debt-plus-currency, of $284 billions in debt matched by $14 billions in assets—a ratio of a little less than 5 per cent.

These figures show that Uncle Sam, in seventeen years, has expanded public credit in this one field alone so that assets have fallen in ratio debts from 16 per cent to 5 per cent.

THEY SHOW GOVERNMENT CREDIT INFLATION OF MORE THAN 200 PER CENT!

This figure of 300 per cent public credit inflation may or may not be precisely accurate, but any error in it is in the nature of being too low rather than too high. In innumerable other fields, the Federal government has expanded its credit in manners where it has NO TANGIBLE ASSETS HATEVER to meet its obligations.

There is a rule-of-thumb calculation which strongly supports the 300 per cent figure as showing the extent of public credit inflation. This is the ratio between government controlled interest rates and those which are "natural"—determined by the laws of supply and demand.

The general rate of interest, in all fields which the government dominates the situation, is, as everyone knows, approximately 2 per cent.

Where can we find the "natural" interest rate which would be current if all government controls and pressures were removed? We cannot do it in bond market figures, for in that field government "pegging" of its own bond prices creates an artificial situation. The place to look is in the field of reasonably sound income-bearing stocks, where the true price in the exchanges is the factor which establishes the ratio between capital value and return.

This is easy to ascertain. In a list of "gilt-edge" stocks, their current prices call for an annual return on investment of 6 per cent or a little better.

This 6 per cent, freely determined by buyers and sellers, is obviously the "natural" interest rate of the times. The 2 per cent represents what has happened to the natural rate as a result of the government so greatly expanding its own credit.

NOTE THAT THE "NATURAL" INTEREST RATE IS 300 PER CENT HIGHER THAN THE RATE WHERE GOVERNMENT INFLATION HAS BEEN THE CONTROLLING FACTOR.

Trying to "pump-prime" industry and commerce so as to support the immense spending of the present National Administration, Uncle Sam has been quietly encouraging the expansion or inflation of private credit.

This is much harder to measure, in any over-all sense, than is the public credit, since the asset figures are almost impossible to analyze, but many sample statistics show the inflation which has been going on—and show also how vulnerable the credit bubble has become. Recent figures on automobile purchasing show that credit use has risen to (in very rough figures) $2½ billion dollars, or a billion dollars more than in 1939, the last pre-war "free market" for cars.

Now, think of these figures a moment. There are now being sold just about the same number of automobiles as in 1939. In actual value they are worth the same, possibly a little less—measured in terms of man-hours and materials involved. Being turned out more by machinery now than in 1939, having more efficient practices available, and using in most cases less materials and less valuable materials—these are factors which justify the statement that the true value of 1949 cars is less than the true value of 1939's cars.

YET A BILLION DOLLARS MORE CREDIT IS BEING DRAWN UPON TO FINANCE AUTO BUYING. A BILLION DOLLARS MORE OF SOMEBODY'S CREDIT HAS BEEN PUT UP FOR THIS PURPOSE, AND THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY HAS A BILLION DOLLARS MORE IN PAPER ON THE SAME NUMBER OF CARS.

IF YOU THINK THIS ISN'T "INFLATION," JUST STOP TO THINK WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF THE BUBBLE WERE HIT FROM EITHER SIDE. SUPPOSE, ON THE ONE HAND, THAT THERE WERE TO BE A SUDDEN SHARP TIGHTENING OF CREDIT—WHERE WOULD THE AUTO INDUSTRY COME OUT? OR WHERE WOULD IT COME OUT IF SOMEONE SOMEWHERE SUDDENLY FOUND A WAY TO PRODUCE CARS FOR SALE AT THEIR TRUE VALUE, INSTEAD OF AN INFLATED PRICE. HOW LONG WOULD IT TAKE FOR A POPULAR $500 CAR TO BRING THIS WHOLE INFLATED CREDIT STRUCTURE DOWN ON EVERYBODY'S EARS?

Here is another sample of how far private credit has been expanded. The television is a lousy new industry. The demand thus far has much exceeded the supply.

Yet some months back, when a financial survey of the industry was made, it was revealed that approximately 67 per cent of television set buying was on credit—and that substantially half of this credit was being drawn upon by borderline-income families who will be the first to go into a hole if a serious recession hits us.

Or, take another field where the facts are better known to the average citizen than of housing. As everyone knows, thousands of homes have been built at prices at least double what always was considered normal before—and probably twice what they will bring in the future if normalcy returns.

In innumerable cases, with government support, the mortgage has been generous even for the inflated price. In the case of war veterans, in some instances the mortgages have been substantially a hundred per cent.

This means several things. In many cases, the war veterans already have found that the "bargain" the government offered them wasn't as good as it seemed at the time.

For one thing, it means that the war veteran and his family are tied up in a mortgage requiring them to pay about twice as much for their home as it will probably be worth when they finish paying for it.

For another, it already has meant that the veteran's "equity" in his property, which is the amount by which the value of the house exceeds the mortgage on it, disappeared months ago and may never reappear until he has retired half or more of the mortgage.

For still another, it means that a great deal of public and private credit has become tied up where it may never successfully get out—tied up by the process of making $10,000 loans on tangible assets worth normally no more than $5000.

That's a process which will bankrupt anyone in the long run. Whether it is done by individuals or by a government, or both, where it eventually comes out is all too obvious: to the poorhouse—and nowhere else.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Jan. 18, 1900. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger route to Philadelphia in September, 1824.

On last Monday evening the following officers were installed in Bristol Castle, No. 103, Knights of Mystic Chain, by Deputy Select Commander George J. Sheppard, assisted by Deputy Select Marshal Harvey S. Rue and Deputy Select Chaplain John Hunter: S.K.P.C., John Barton; S.K.C., Monroe Barton; S.K.V.C., Joseph McDonald; S.K.M., William Jackson; S.K.R.S., John C. Adams; S.K. treas., Harvey S. Rue; chaplain, Alpheus Peterson; inside guard, Hugh Mackie; outside guard, John Booz, Jr.

(Following items from Gazette of January 25, 1900.)

Edgar Smith, who for several years has been in the employ of Wm. H. Grundy & Co., sailed yesterday on the steamship "Advance" for Aspinwall, Isthmus of Panama, where he has accepted a position as stenographer with the Panama Steamship and Railroad Company.

In the early part of the week it took the coach a longer time than usual to make the trips from Crofton to Bristol on account of the rough roads.

The Republican electors of Bristol township met at Emile on last Saturday. Notwithstanding the fact that the date of the meeting had to be changed and only about 48 hours notice was given, there was an unusually large turn-out of Republicans.

William C. Mayne was elected president; and William Leigh, east district, and Austin S. Vandegraft, west district, secretaries.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bristol Free Library was held in the library room on last Thursday evening.

John K. Wildman was called to the chair and Jesse O. Thomas was made secretary.

The report of the treasurer, Miss M. A. Gillespie, showed a balance on hand of $11.35.

After the adjournment of the shareholders' meeting the board of managers was re-organized. John K. Wildman was elected president; Jesse O. Thomas, secretary; and Miss M. A. Gillespie, treasurer. Miss Esther Lawrence was re-elected librarian by the board.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Shameful Servility

Washington, June 13.

A MORE unpleasant exhibition of political servility than that of the Democratic leaders in Congress last week would be hard to imagine. It was an utterly unbecoming performance, too—right out in the open. Strangely, it got slight newspaper attention.

REFERENCE is to the extraordinary manner in which, after the unctuous Mr. Philip Murray, head of the CIO, cracked the whip over their backs, these Democratic leaders exactly sawing away from the position they had assumed and obsequiously chorused, in effect: "Yes, Mr. Murray"; "Yes, indeed, Mr. Murray"; "You are perfectly right, Mr. Murray"; "We are in complete accord with you, Mr. Murray." Previously they had given every evidence of not being in the least accord with Mr. Murray. On the contrary, they had publicly promulgated the view that most of Mr. Truman's fantastic "Fair Deal" program was doomed so far as this session is concerned.

PUBLICLY, Mr. Truman rejected this notion though there is reason to believe he privately accepted its truth. He piously hoped at a press conference that most of his proposals would be enacted before adjournment. Paying slight attention to this, Administration leaders declared that only the North Atlantic pact, the reciprocal trade agreements and the Taft-Hartley repeal could be acted upon at this session. Everything else would have to go over until next fall. Adjournment would be not later than July 31. That was the way things stood up to May 31. On that day, speaking as one with authority, Mr. Murray sternly rebuked the Democratic leadership. He abruptly ordered it to halt its "drift toward congressional inaction." He called upon it for a "forthright statement" of its purpose to stay in session "until substantial sections" of the "Fair Deal" program are enacted. He sneered at the "reputation" of the Eighty-first Congress and sharply criticized its leaders.

The immediate result was a stampede to reverse themselves. Mr. Murray's May 31 statement was in letters to Senate Leader Scott Lucas and House Leader John McCormack. On June 1, Mr. McCormack replied to Mr. Murray substantially as follows: "I am in receipt of your letter and there is nothing in it with which I am not in full agreement." With equal speed, Senator Lucas replied that much of what Mr. Murray demanded had already passed the Senate (which is not at all accurate) and that it was the House that lagged. "If, however," he said, "it is impossible to pass the major measures demanded by July 31, we

OTHER leaders followed with similar stultifying declarations. Literally, over night their attitude changed. But the realities of course have not changed. It is just as true as before that the bulk of Mr. Truman's domestic program will not go through at this session—first, because sentiment in the country does not favor it; second, because a majority of Congress is opposed. Mr. Murray, with his solemn mandate, has not changed a single vote in Congress but he has accomplished two things. For one, he compelled the Democratic leadership publicly to put on a show of shameful subservience such as has not been seen in our politics before. Of course, since 1936 the Democrats, nationally, have been allied with the CIO and acquiesced in its claim of being indispensable to Democratic success. But, previously, there had been no unbecoming admission that they took orders from it.

THAT is exactly what the party leaders have done this time. A considerable number of their followers are humiliated. It is one thing, they say, to play politics with the CIO, it is quite another to submit openly to CIO dictation. The second thing Mr. Murray has accomplished is to postpone Senate action on the terribly important North Atlantic pact, for which Secretary of State Acheson and General Marshall have earnestly appealed. Until he cracked the whip and the leaders jumped through his hoop, the pact had the right of way in the Senate. Due to the unselfish patriotism of Mr. Murray and the noble nature of the Democratic leaders it has now lost priority and the Taft-Hartley repeal proposal has taken its place. This may mean weeks of labor-bill debate before the pact can be taken up at all. At a very critical moment this has weakened our hand at the Paris conference. In his statement Mr. Murray mentioned practically everything else but significantly said no word for the pact, perhaps the most vital of all Administration measures.

THE pathetic feature of this mortifying Democratic performance is that it is so completely unnecessary. Fear of Mr. Murray is so completely unfounded. Politically, he is a bluff, a bully and a fraud. As proven in the last campaign in which the CIO pledged itself to drive out of public life every candidate for Congress who had supported the Taft-Hartley bill, he is totally unable to deliver his own votes. The claims of his organization are demonstrably absurd. As shown by the 1948 Dunn surveys in some states and many districts CIO support is more a liability than an asset. It all adds up to make Democratic leaders in Congress seem a particularly pusillanimous lot of rabbits.

Couple Wed On Sunday Are En Route To Florida

A couple united in marriage in St. Ann's R. C. Church yesterday at 11 o'clock mass is en route to Florida, the motor trip being of two weeks duration. The bride is the former Miss Leonora Favaroso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Favaroso, 1045 Pond street, and the bridegroom, Mr. Joseph Martin, son of Mrs. Julia Martin, Philadelphia.

The priest who conducted the mass is the Rev. Peter Pinci; vocal selections by Mrs. Helen Wells, Phila., being "Ave Maria" and "The Rosary." Mr. Favaroso gave his daughter in marriage.

For her wedding day the young woman had selected a lace-trimmed white satin gown with long train, her six-yard veil of net, edged in lace, being attached to a rhinestone tiara. The white prayer book, topped by a lavender orchid, with shower of valley lilies, carried to the altar was exchanged for a bouquet of Easter lilies, with lavender orchid at the center when the recessional began. This, too, was with shower effect.

Aqua marquisette gowns of the three bridesmaids, were floor length, featuring peplums. Their matching hats had trim of white wild roses; slippers were gold tone; and colonial bouquets of white roses were carried. The attendants were: Miss Florence Carleo, 611 Cedar street; Mrs. Josephine Stevenson, and Miss Eva Tranotti, Dorrance street.

Best man for Mr. Martin was Mr. Flore Favaroso, brother of the bride; and ushers Messrs. Jack Tranotti, Dorrance street, and Rudolph Favaroso, New York, N. Y., a cousin of the bride.

Two hundred guests gathered in Roman hall, Trenton, N. J., for the reception and dinner.

Leaving for the south, Mrs. Martin was attired in plum organdy with white trim, wore white accessories, and a lavender orchid. The couple will make their home at 1045 Pond street.

Gifts of Mrs. Martin to her attendants were rhinestone necklace and earring sets; while Mr. Martin gave the best man and ushers marquisette ties, initialed. Mr. Martin served in the Merchant Marine during World War II. Mrs. Martin graduated from Marinello School of Beauty Culture, Philadelphia.

The mother of the bride wore for the wedding an aqua crepe dress, silver sequin trimmed, black hat and gold accessories. Mrs. Martin the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a black and blue print dress and black accessories. Both had corsages of red roses.

Johnson became panic stricken and ran to the store instead of the camp, which is nearer, to summon help. In the meantime David Morrell came along and pulling off his clothes jumped into the water in an endeavor to rescue Scott. Morrell said that he managed to reach the bottom of the lake but could not locate Scott.

Victor Janette, Doylestown, who has a camp some distance from the scene, heard the cries for help and ran to the scene. Jose Reyes, an instructor at the King Farms, was also nearby and tried to get to the assistance of Scott without success. Reyes says that he went into the water several times trying to get Scott.

The Bucks County Rescue Squad worked strenuously over Scott for over two hours trying to revive him but without success. Scott was pronounced dead by Bucks County Coroner, J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwall Heights, and the body was removed to the funeral home of John C. Black, Bristol.

which are perfect, universal and eternal. "The physical structure has been completed out of the material things; now let us build a spiritual structure—one of nobility, righteousness and of love," he urged.

There were words of welcome given by Samuel Gratz who expressed satisfaction the members derived from the completion of the edifice.

Mrs. Herman Silber, retiring president of the Sisterhood to Ahavath Achim, told of the pleasure of the Sisterhood upon completion of the building, and that it indicated progress of Judaism in Bristol. "We pause today for this dedication, but tomorrow we must put our shoulders to the wheel," she said.

The next speaker was Louis Dries, chaplain of the congregation. He said in part: "Happy indeed we are to be privileged by the Almighty God to behold and to participate in the exercise of this solemn day—the dedication of our sacred edifice. We welcome all our friends—our distinguished guests—our neighbors—our visitors—our co-workers and our colleagues. We greet the whole community and ask in the name of God that all partake with us in our joyful, yet solemn, celebration. Let us begin with prayers of gratitude. In the ancient Jewish manner, that He has permitted us to live, that He has preserved us and enabled us to witness this great day in which our Temple of humanity begins to serve His holy cause."

"There are many in this gathering who have passed the greater portion of their years as members of this community. Others are of a more recent day. Many can remember our early trials and the serious problems which confronted us as we struggled to become a valued part of this community. We were helped by many along the way. We, in turn, have made our individual contributions toward improving Bristol as a place to live in, to work in, a place of peace, of plenty and of decency."

Arthur Bloom, of the contracting firm of Bloom and Lambert, presented the key of the structure to Herman Silber who accepted it "with pride and humility." Mr. Silber said "after 15 years our dreams have come true, after much talk and effort." He told of the excellent cooperation the congregation had received from those of the community and enumerated the diversified groups which had assisted.

Edward B. Watson, state senator; former United States Senator, Joseph R. Grundy; Borough Attorney, John L. Kileoyne, Esq.; Paul J. Barrett, Esq., responded briefly. Mr. Kileoyne said that he brought the congratulations of the municipal authorities.

Leon Plavin then called upon Mr. Silber and said that Mr. Silber had been president of the congregation since 1946, had been leader, given guidance, and had spent many hours each day in seeing that the work of building the center was completed. "He not only gave his heart but a thousand hearts," said Mr. Plavin, "and we wish to honor him in bronze." He then presented a handsome bronze tablet which will be placed in the building in recognition of the untiring efforts and devotion of Mr. Silber in furthering the work of construction of the center. Mr. Silber responded briefly.

Rabbi Moskovits closed the service with prayer, and the congregation sang the national anthem. All then adjourned to the social hall in the basement where a buffet lunch was served.

Fire Loss in County In One Year is $303,433

An interesting sidelight upon retirement of Raymond Strunk as county fire marshal was a report on the county fire losses during the 12 years he served as marshal.

The report was not required of the retiring officer but was submitted as a supplementary bit of information.

The total loss for the twelve-year period reached the amazing total of $353,287.00. The greatest loss in a single year during his term came in 1946 when fire damages amounted to $497,911. The lowest yearly loss was in 1939 when only $171,142 was listed as the county fire loss.

Two Fire Engines Are Damaged; Soldier Hurt

PERKASIE, June 13 — Two pieces of fire apparatus were damaged, and a soldier standing on the running board of one of the trucks while it was parked was injured, in a crash here late Saturday afternoon as one group of firemen attempted to answer an alarm. The accident took place after the annual firemen's parade here.

The injured, Donald K. Graling, New Hope, a soldier at Fort Dix,

N. J., knocked from running board of Lamberville, N. J. Fire Co. truck, treated at Grandview Hospital, Sellersville, then returned to Fort Dix. It is stated that the Lamberville truck was parked along a narrow road between Sellersville and south Perkasie at 5:30 after the parade. Doylestown firemen, who received a call to a barn fire at Carversville, started back to Doylestown, with Victor Fell at the wheel. According to Fell, an automobile ahead of him contained a woman and fire children. He states that in attempting to avoid striking this machine, in the heavy traffic, he sideswiped the parked truck of Lamberville company.

Lamberville truck damage is listed at $100, and Doylestown apparatus damage at $300.

Doylestown firemen thus did not reach the scene of the fire, an empty barn on the property of Elmer and Helen Morgan Williams, Carversville. Loss is estimated at $5000, the barn being covered by insurance.

On the subject of education, Mr. Eppley said: "Education will rely less upon books and more on direct experience, such as laboratories, shops, charts, moving pictures, radio programs and other aids to learning. Education for citizenship in 'one-world' will give much more international understanding. Travel will be extensive, used for education. Youth prefers to go places and see for themselves. Exchange of students and teachers is likely to be in full swing. Teachers will be expected to have spent time living in some other culture. Exchange seems practical for students and teachers."

Following this address, fellowship was enjoyed under direction of Ray Shriver.

With two clergymen officiating, Miss Vivian H. Panton, 310 Hayes street, was given in marriage by her father on Saturday, to become the bride of Mr. Ronald P. Brown, Morrisville, son of Mrs. Marie Brown, of Beverly, N. J. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Panton, Hayes street. The Rev. Roland Carlson, pastor of Harriman Methodist Church, was assisted by the Rev. Charles Weller, pastor of Bristol Methodist Church, at the three o'clock ceremony in Bristol Methodist Church.

The attendants included Mrs. Robert Henshall, Camden, N. J., cousin of the bride, as matron of honor; Miss Elaine Panton, Hayes street, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Joseph Walker, Spruce street, bridesmaids; Mr. Kenneth Brown, of Hancock, N. J., brother of the bridegroom, as best man; Messrs. Walter and John Anderson, of Beverly, as ushers.

Mrs. Henshall was costumed in blue green, her floor-length gown being of marquisette, and her veil having an open crown with trim of yellow flowers. Miss Elaine Panton wore pink marquisette and Mrs. Walker, blue marquisette; their open-crown hats matching the gowns, each having a large bow at the back. The three wore white slippers. The matron of honor carried yellow roses, and the other two attendants pink roses, the bouquets being circular.

The white bridal gown was of Chantilly lace and marquisette over net and satin, the full cut skirt being strewn with white rose petals. The gown was entrain. With this was worn a sweetheart headpiece of marquisette with orange blossom trim, and a fingertip veil of net. Her circular bouquet was composed of white roses.

Vocal selections by Mrs. John VanSoest, Hayes street, were "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," her accompanist being Miss Winifred V. Tracy, of Buckley street.

Two hundred guests attended a reception in I. O. O. F. hall.

Leaving for a week's motor trip through the New England states, Mrs. Brown was attired in a navy blue suit and matching accessories, and wore a corsage of gardenias. Home address of the couple will be 310 Hayes street.

For attendance at the wedding, Mrs. Panton, the bride's mother, was costumed in a gray sheer gown, while Mrs. Brown, the bridegroom's mother, wore a crepe print with an off-white background, also a pink jacket. Accessories of both were white, and they wore white rosebuds made into corsages.

The bride graduated from Bristol high school, Mr. Brown, a graduate of Burlington, N. J., high school, served in the U. S. Coast Guard for five years.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Herbert Leasing, Jr., Rector
Church of The Redeemer
(Episcopal)
Andalusia, Pa.

There has been a steady trend towards the secularizing of the functions of the church during recent years. Without becoming controversial over the relative merits of psychology and sociology as compared with religion, we might look at some of the implications of this trend for us. First of all, when people need the help of the psychiatrist or social worker, it is because they have problems... problems which often belong in the province of the professional religionist, namely, the priest, the rabbi, the minister. But people do not want to turn to religion, in spite of the fact that today's clergy are often trained in psychology and social work, because they often enjoy being in difficulty. In the old days, lots of these "problems" would come under the heading of sin... sin is enjoyable... so people go to secular agencies which call sin by less painful words like maladjustment, drives, libido, and other linguistic gobbledygook which make the patient feel that he really isn't so bad off after all.

Miss June Pinelli, Lafayette street, was fete at a surprise party, Thursday evening, in honor of her 16th birthday anniversary. The affair was arranged by her sister, Mrs. Ralph DiGiuseppi, and was held at a hall on Pear street. Fuchsia and white streamers were used for decorations. Entertainment included games and dancing.

NEWPORTVILLE, THIRD WARD AND TERRACE NINES WIN

The Bristol Youth League opened its fifth season yesterday afternoon with victories going to Newportville, Third Ward Eagles, and Terrace.

The surprise of the afternoon was on Memorial Park field where the Terrace boys nosed out Croydon, defending champion, by a score of 6-5.

Marty Braam's boy had the lead from the start but Dave Muth almost "blew" the game in the fifth when three hits and a walk gave Croydon three runs.

In the fourth inning, Hoigate smashed out a home run for the losing team.

Graceon White led Terrace with the stick with a triple and double while Frank Rich had a double and single.

Frankie Barbetta handled himself nice behind the plate for the winners, killing two runners at the plate. During batting practice, Barbetta was struck in the eye with a batted ball but insisted on catching the game.

Paul Schmitt held Bristol Township to three hits as he hurled the Newportville Redskins to an easy 11-2 victory on Township's field. The winners had nine blows off Bob Rigby and James.

The Third Ward Eagles, under the management of Harold Loud, played its first game in the circuit, having recently entered and lashed out a 13-8 win over Fourth Ward A. C.

Two of the hits mixed with six walks gave "Vince" Paragalli's lads six runs in the fifth inning.

Ralston Stevens hits a homer with one on in the sixth inning to clinch the tilt for the Eagles.

"Buddy" Loud has four out of five to lead the battlers of the game.
